

SNOWFIGHTER APPRECIATION DAY

November 30, 2018

Much of Public Works is thankless. When an agency is getting the job done, most of the public will forget about your very existence! It is only when things get interesting that people think about the workers in the public works agency, and often what they think is not too complimentary. So, when it comes to snow, people may be more inclined to think in terms of snow being plowed into their driveway and how hard that will be to shovel, rather than terms of someone having been up all night doing a difficult job so that they (the public) can get to work safely in the morning.